902 Broadway, 6th Floor
New York, NY 10010

Internship Offer – Fall & Spring

Try The World is the first online discovery platform for foreign products, starting with food. Today, if you want pasta, you want it to be from Italy, if you want green tea it needs to be Japanese and if you want coffee it should be from Brazil.

Try The World enables you to discover the most authentic and hard to find products from every country. Subscribe on trytheworld.com and receive a box from a different country every 2 months ($45/box). The boxes include the best gourmet products and artistic gems from the most beautiful countries in the world (France, Japan, Brazil, Italy, Turkey, India etc.).

Try The World is the Birchbox of international products.

Try The World has already been covered on the Wall Street Journal, Inc Magazine, TechCrunch, BuzzFeed, NY1, NBC, ABCNews, HuffingtonPost, and many more, and sold thousands of boxes.

- The 2 co-founders met while in grad school at Columbia University (Columbia Business School and Columbia's SIPA); they applied their passion for discovering new countries to the subscription box business model
- Completed 2 incubators at Google HQ and Columbia University
- Secured $100k in revenue in year 1 (while at school) with close to $0 invested in marketing
- Secured funding from strategic investors including Columbia Business School's Fund

We are looking for someone who wants to join a fast-growing start-up and who is not afraid of responsibilities and of learning new skills. You would be working on business development and on marketing projects. Business Development includes finding foreign brands and negotiating partnerships. Marketing includes managing paid and unpaid marketing channels. The hierarchy is flat and the team is small, so you would be in charge of your projects, with direct interactions and brainstorming with the founders.
